The Chicota Project Bazaar - Saturday, Feb 14, 2015 -

When the Jekyll Island Garden Club terminated last year, it found itself with a treasury balance of $5,800. Since then the club board, active at the time, has searched for a use for these funds. Island beautification has been the long time goal of the Club.

This process has brought to light a Jekyll Island Authority plan for a garden venue built around the Chicota Cottage ruins (with the two lions in front facing the marsh) in the Island Historic District. The plan calls for a reflecting pool and an assortment of beautiful plantings that would be accomplished in a series of phases. The plan seems an almost perfect fit for the residual Jekyll Island Garden Club funds. While the details have yet to be worked out with the JIA, it is planned that these residual funds will be donated to the JIA with stipulation that they be used as seed money for the Chicota Project to honor the 50+ years of the Jekyll Island Garden Club.

As a result, the project has garnered the interest of a group of Islanders who are planning a community bazaar to be held in the Morgan Center on February 14, 2015. All proceeds from this bazaar will support the Chicota Project fund. Your support and involvement are welcomed and valued. Watch for further updates on viewing the Chicota Project. For information regarding the bazaar, Please contact co-chairs Barbara Coryea (724-971-6212) or Megan Jefferies (912-635-3357). This is an opportunity for everyone on the island to participate in its care and beautification.
